Knox Hands Rebel Leader a Little Warm Advice.

TOLD HIS TALK IS DANGEROUS

State Department Takes Prompt Action When Man Who Deserted Madero In Hour of Need Says Americans in Northern Mexico Will Suffer Because United States Has Cut Off Supplies From Insurgent Army. Battle Near Torreon Is Draw.

Washington, June 1.—Instructions have been wired United States Consul Letcher at Chihuahua, Mexico, to demand of General Orozco, the rebel leader, an explanation of the threats emanating from revolutionist sources that the insurgents would wreak personal vengeance on Americans in north Mexico because of the attitude of the United States government regarding the shipment of arms across the border.

Mr. Letcher was instructed to remind General Orozco that such threats, which have been circulated under General Orozco's name, are extremely dangerous and can not be ignored by the United States. The rebel leader will be emphatically told that talk of reprisals against the life and property of Americans is out of keeping with all civilized observances.

Printed in Juarez. It appeared in Juarez, however, in the form of printed protests of Orozco against the refusal of the United States to permit the shipments of arms and ammunition across the Mexican border. In this protest is the threat that possibly the resentment of the revolutionists may be so great as to make attacks on American life and property likely. The result of the publications of those statements has already been apparent to an increase of anti-American feeling. It is known that the revolutionists are feeling keenly the effect of the shutting off of their supply of munitions of war.

Reports received say that conditions in the states of Sinaloa, Guerrero, Morelos, Oaxaca and the Isthmus of Tehuantepec are extremely bad. Desultory fighting has occurred between federals and the rebels near Comar, not far from Torreon. The fighting thus far has been without definite results.

Ohio Editor Consults Taft

Warren G. Harding Tells President Ohio Six Will Be His. Washington, June 1. — President Taft received assurances from Warren G. Harding of Ohio, ex-Lieutenant governor of the state and one of the Taft leaders, that his friends will control the state convention to be held next Tuesday at Columbus, when six delegates-at-large to the Chicago convention will be chosen. President Taft, Charles D. Hilles, secretary to the president, and Mr. Harding spent an hour at the White House going over the situation. Mr. Harding said he Taft forces will control the convention by majority of from 40 to 80. "There will be about 755 delegates in the Ohio convention," said Mr. Harding. "The president will have at least 415 delegates. A total of 378 is necessary to control the convention. Resolutions indorsing President Taft's candidacy and administration will be adopted and the six delegates-at-large will be instructed for him."

Colonel Roosevelt's announcement that he will not agree to a compromise in the Ohio convention, together with a similar statement made by President Taft in a telegram to Arthur I. Vorys, the president's campaign manager in Ohio, has put a quietus on all efforts to reach an agreement for an equal division of the six delegates-at-large between the Roosevelt and Taft factions.

Detective Fell Easy For Graft

Detective Burns Finds Atlantic City Councilmen Easy. Atlantic City, June 1.—City Councilman Harry F. Dougherty, arrested on a charge of having accepted a bribe of $500 for voting for the passage of an ordinance providing for a concrete board walk along the beach front, designed to cost $1,000,000, was given a hearing. Through his lawyer he pleaded not guilty and was held in $3,000 bail for the grand jury.

Detective William Burns testified that he had been summoned here to investigate alleged corrupt acts and dishonesty in civic matters. He began his investigation in April, 1911, and continued until August, when he evolved a fake board-walk scheme to catch certain officials. One of his operatives, posing as "Mr. Harris," a New York contractor, became familiar with councilmen, offered several of them $5,000 each to pass the ordinance providing for the board walk, and paid $500 apiece on account.

Carpathia Officers Are Dined By Rescued

Titanic Widows Give Luncheon to Rostron and Magee. New York, June 1. — Two women who lost their husbands when the Titanic went down showed Captain Henry Rostron and Surgeon Frank Magee of the rescue ship Carpathia something of their appreciation. Mrs. Madeline Astor, the widow of John J. Astor, and Mrs. John B. Thayer of Philadelphia, whose husband was lost on the Titanic, told these two men, the one commander of the steamship that gave them shelter after hours of drifting in the open boats that left the sinking Titanic, the other the companion physician who administered to them on their way home, of their deep gratitude at a luncheon at the Astor home on Fifth avenue.

"Titanic Waifs" Restored To Their Youthful Mother

AFTER tragic and romantic experiences such as fall to the lot of few, whether babies or grownups, the two Titanic waifs, Michel and Edmond, have been restored to their pretty young mother, Mme. Navratil, who, mourning the loss of her children, taken from her by their father, from whom she was separated, first learned of their whereabouts through the newspaper accounts of the two beautiful children rescued from the sinking vessel and tenderly cared for by a young New York woman, also a survivor of the wreck. Probably no two children in humble life (their father, who went to his death like a man on the Titanic, was a tailor and their mother a saleswoman) have ever received the worldwide attention which came to these two boys. Their beauty and the pathetic circumstances of their rescue and restoration to their mother constituted the one episode of the disaster upon which the mind can dwell with unmixed gratification, so full is the whole story of human nature and human kindness. In spite of many offers for the adoption of the children their mother has taken them back to their home in Nice and declares that she will never part with them.

Columbus, O., June 1.—The voters of Ohio will pass judgment on the new constitution on Sept. 3, according to the manner provided by the constitutional convention, as follows: All proposals will be printed, with the exception of the license clause, in a single column, and the voter will indicate his sentiment with regard to each.

The license proposal will be printed separately at the top and to the right side of the ballot. The voter will cast his ballot "For License" or "Against License."

The suffrage proposal will be printed in the general list. In this way the elector will be compelled to pass on each proposal.

Asylum Inmate Meets Death In Water Vat

Inmate of Dayton Asylum at Mercy of Careless Attendant.

Dayton, O., June 1.—Suffering terrible agony from scalds received in a bathtub at the Dayton state hospital, Carl Smith, an insane patient, died several hours later. His body was literally cooked and he remained in an unconscious condition from the time he received the injury until death.

Smith, who was 58 years old, was being given a bath by Joe Novotney, an attendant. He was so feeble that he could not assist himself, and when placed in the tub he complained that the water was too cold, and the attendant turned on the hot water and in so doing gave it a wrench which tightened the faucet. The heat from the water expanded the faucet and Novotney was unable to turn off the hot water.

Giving all his attention to the faucet, the attendant left the patient to take care of himself. Smith, who was suffering from a form of paralysis, was unable to climb from the tub. His cries only caused Novotney to redouble his efforts to shut off the water, and in the meantime Smith received the burns that caused his death. Smith was received from Marathon, Clermont county, where he has a mother and son residing. Hospital authorities summarily discharged Novotney. It is said he will not be made a defendant in criminal prosecution, however.

Youth Then Makes Attempt to End Own Life.

Phillipsburg, N. Y., June 1.—Jealous because Anna Lynch, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Lynch, went to picture shows with other young men, Frank Brown, 24, of Easton, murdered her and then shot himself.

The girl had been decoyed from the parochial school of St. Phillips and James Catholic church by a letter telling her that her mother was seriously sick, and was met by Brown. He asked her if she would not marry him without delay, and when she replied she would not answer because of her mother's illness, Brown pulled a large-caliber revolver from his pocket and shot her, the ball entering her chest near the heart. The girl fell, but soon got on her feet and, assisted by a little boy who ran to her side, staggered toward her home, half a block away, but fell dead as she entered the house.

After shooting the girl Brown turned the weapon on himself and sent a bullet into his chest. He was hurried to the hospital. He may recover.

Coroner Rodgers visited Brown in the hospital and secured from him a statement, in which he admits he intended to kill the girl and himself.

Formulate Their Plans

New Jersey Delegates Will Stick to Roosevelt to Last.

Trenton, N. J., June 1.—Colonel Roosevelt's 28 New Jersey delegates to the Chicago convention mapped out in detail their plans for participating in the convention. Former Governor John Franklin Fort was chosen as chairman of the delegation. It was also agreed that T. D. Whiting succeed Former Governor Murphy as a member of the Republican national committee.

One of the resolutions adopted at the conference pledged the delegates to vote for Roosevelt on every ballot until the adjournment of the convention. It was agreed that the delegates and their friends should go to Chicago on a special train, leaving Jersey City Friday, June 14, preceding the Tuesday on which the national convention opens.

IS ENTITLED TO "BIG SIX"

Colonel's Manager in Buckeye State Denies Right of President to Capture Even One Delegate-at-Large, Owing to Fact That His Candidate Polled More Votes in State, Carried More Counties and Won Victories in Republican Strongholds.

Columbus, O., June 1.—Chairman Brown, following receipt of a telegram from Colonel Roosevelt protesting against even one delegate-at-large from Ohio being given to President Taft, issued the following statement:

"The president's telegram to Mr. Vorys raises the issue squarely. Shall the delegates to the Republican state convention represent the Republicans of Ohio and select Roosevelt delegates-at-large, or shall they misrepresent the Republicans of Ohio and select Taft delegates-at-large?"

"The total vote cast in the Republican presidential primary was 299,741, a fraction less than 80 per cent of the vote cast for Harding for governor in 1910. Of this, LaFollette delegates received 15,570, Taft delegates 118,362, Roosevelt delegates 165,809. Roosevelt's plurality over Taft was 47,447. Roosevelt's majority over Taft and LaFollette combined, 31,977. These figures are the aggregate of the official vote cast for the leading Roosevelt, Taft and LaFollette candidates for delegates in each county.

Nine Were Democratic.

"Roosevelt carried 69 of the 88 counties in Ohio, while Taft carried but 19. Of the 19 counties carried by Taft, nine are reliably Democratic and were carried by Bryan in 1908. Out of 17 counties in which LaFollette delegates were entered, in five, all normal Republican strongholds, Fulton, Wood, Lake, Medina and Cuyahoga, LaFollette received more votes than Taft.

"The demand of the president that federal officeholders and others who have been supporting him, either for patronage received or expected, disregard the clearly expressed will of Ohio Republicans and, by road-roller methods, secure him six delegates-at-large from Ohio, is manifestly prompted by an utter disregard for the Republican party in Ohio. To insist that federal officeholders at Cleveland cast the vote of Cuyahoga county in the state convention for Taft delegates-at-large, in the face of the fact that the president run 8,583 votes behind Roosevelt and 335 behind LaFollette, is monstrous."

MARSHAL'S BROKEN LEG TURNS TIDE IN ELECTION

South Charleston Votes Dry by 119 Majority After Short Liberal Reign Caused by Clark
County Voting Wet.

South Charleston swung back into the dry column Friday, reversing by a decisive majority, the sentiment expressed by the voters of Clark county at the county option election held a few weeks ago.

When the count was made it was found that out of a total of 367 votes, the temperance advocates had secured 243 and the wets 124, giving the dries a majority of 119 votes, or 23 more than turned it at the last previous election held under the Rose local option law.

While the election was one of the quietest ever held in South Charleston, the vote polled was exceedingly heavy. The early vote was large, indicating that all records would be broken, as was afterwards evidenced when the final count was made.

There were no disturbances to mark the day.

It was conceded early that the drys had carried the day. The heavy vote was acknowledged to be in favor of the temperance supporters, and long before the polls closed in the evening the wets had given up all hope of victory. They were, however, unprepared for the decisive majority rolled up by the dries, a hotly contested fight having been anticipated.

In South Charleston it is the prevailing opinion that the occurrence of Sunday, in which Marshal James Smith had his left leg fractured in a scuffle which ensued when he attempted to arrest a man named Massey for alleged intoxication, increased the sentiment against the wets, insuring a victory for their opponents. Everyone seems positive that this affair was in reality responsible for the heavy dry vote cast, although the dries say they would have won out any how.

Marshal Smith was removed to the hospital in Xenia Friday, an examination resulting in the discovery that he had sustained a compound fracture of the left leg. He was resting easy last night and while it will be weeks, if not months, before he will be able to resume his duties, no serious results are anticipated, further than the long and tedious confinement which will result from the injury.

Upon two previous occasions when South Charleston voted under the Rose law, the election resulted in a tie vote.

DISMANTLING OLD BUILDING

Old Central School and High School Building

The work of dismantling the old Central School building is well under way, and the entire roof has been torn away and much of the interior wood work removed, so that the walls of the structure and floors are all that remain, and these will be torn down the coming week.

This action is in accordance with the recent bond issue of $30,000 which was voted upon and carried and when the old building is removed, the work of building a large auditorium, connecting with the new school house proper, will be started, and the entire structure finished and ready for occupancy by September 15th of this year.

The old building was erected back in the fifties, and was no longer regarded as safe, as the fire dangers were great, the cupola was leaning, and a few years at most would have been the life of the structure.

The new High school building walls are up to the second story, with work progressing very rapidly.

Women Mix It Up Arrest Follows

Waterloo has been very much interested the past few days in the outcome of a family squabble which occurred there a few days ago, when Mrs. Wm. Scott assaulted her sister-in-law, Mrs. Cora Scott, striking her with a broom, inflicting a bad wound upon her arm, and flourishing a revolver with dire threats of what she would do.

This occurred several days ago, and Mrs. Cora Scott later came to this city and filed an affidavit against Mrs. Wm. Scott, charging her with assault. The defendant entered a plea of guilty and was placed under a peace bond.

Both parties appeared greatly humiliated over the trouble. It is said that the two women have not been upon the best of terms for some time, and the clash recently was the outcome of the trouble.

PERSONAL LETTER.

Fellow Citizens:

Having decided to offer myself as candidate for Probate Judge of Fayette County, I respectfully solicit your favorable consideration.

For about four years I served in said office as Deputy Clerk and you may judge of my ability to discharge the duties of the office; and if the confidence that you formerly reposed in me merits your influence and support, I shall be very grateful.

Doubtless you already know that the office of Probate Judge is non-partisan, and it will afford me pleasure to be accorded a place on the "Judicial Ticket."

Having lived in Fayette County the most of my life and having been engaged in school work for several years, I believe that the citizens of the county know my fitness for the office which I seek, and will act accordingly.

If I should be successful, I need not tell you that all will receive fair and honest treatment, and that all duties will be discharged faithfully.

While I shall be pleased to meet, personally, every voter in the county, it may be impossible for me to do so.

After a careful consideration, if you can see your way clear to support me next November, I shall appreciate it very much.

Respectfully yours,
JEROME A. DICK.

bubbling over with pretty singing and dancing numbers and an abundant of good, clean, wholesome comedy in conjunction with three A-1 pictures will be presented. Two shows will be given each night, 7:30

ST. CLAIRSVILLE COUNTY LIFE INSTITUTE.

An institute will be held for the discussion of ways of improving life in the country under modern conditions in the Presbyterian church of St. Clairsville, June 12th and 13th.

For the last ten years the country church has been losing ground. It is estimated that there are ten thousand abandoned country churches in America today. Country schools have made progress only against the greatest odds. Schools and churches cannot progress in the midst of a shifting and decreasing country population. There has been a tremendous emigration of the small farmer to the West and an exodus of the young people into the cities.

The problem of changing existing conditions will be taken up by prominent divines and university men of the state.

There will be no admissions and the public generally is invited.

Wife Number Two Withdraws Charges

A new turn occurred in the Dr.
E. L. Hickman bigamy case when Mrs. Hickman appeared at the Mayor's office and withdrew the affidavit against Hickman, whereupon he was given his freedom from the county jail.

The man returned to his home and commenced working at the carpenter trade again Saturday, it is claimed.
Whether this will end the affair, or whether a further investigation will be made, remains to be seen.

MARSHAL'S BROKEN LEG TURNS TIDE IN ELECTION

South Charleston Votes Dry by 119 Majority After Short Liberal Reign Caused by Clark
County Voting Wet.

South Charleston swung back into the dry column Friday, reversing by a decisive majority, the sentiment expressed by the voters of Clark county at the county option election held a few weeks ago.

When the count was made it was found that out of a total of 367 votes, the temperance advocates had secured 243 and the wets 124, giving the dries a majority of 119 votes, or 23 more than turned it at the last previous election held under the Rose local option law.

While the election was one of the quietest ever held in South Charleston, the vote polled was exceedingly heavy. The early vote was large, indicating that all records would be broken, as was afterwards evidenced when the final count was made. There were no disturbances to mark the day.

It was conceded early that the dries had carried the day. The heavy vote was acknowledged to be in favor of the temperance supporters, and long before the polls closed in the evening the wets had given up all hope of victory. They were, however, unprepared for the decisive majority rolled up by the dries, a hotly contested fight having been anticipated.

In South Charleston it is the prevailing opinion that the occurrence of Sunday, in which Marshal James Smith had his left leg fractured in a scuffle which ensued when he attempted to arrest a man named Massey for alleged intoxication, increased the sentiment against the wets, insuring a victory for their opponents. The noted English Hair Specialist, Mrs. Kate Seaton Mason, who for many years treated the hair of the Vanderbilt family, the Duchess of Marlborough, Mme. Melba, and many other titled and prominent people of London, Paris, New York and Newport, largely attributed her great success to what she called Mrs. Mason's Old English Shampoo Cream, which

Acts on the Hair
Like Water on a Plant
Its antiseptic, germicidal and tonic properties are massaged into the roots of the hair during the process of shampooing. Does two things at once—washes the hair beautifully and stimulates the roots to healthy action—thus enabling it to stop falling hair, remove dandruff and irritation, and create hair and scalp health. Makes the hair look twice as thick as it really is. Mrs. Mason's Old English Shampoo Cream is 25c a tube, enough for several shampoos. You ought to try it. ## WHAT DID YOUR SHIRTWAIST COST?

Whether you bought it ready to wear, or had it made, or made it for yourself, you know that it cost enough, even if it is pretty and fresh and clean. And if it is frayed and soiled and worn and homely looking after it has been in the wash three or four times, it has cost, entirely too much. Might as well throw your shirtwaist money away as allow your shirtwaists to be washed with common yellow soap. Easy Task Laundry Soap takes the dirt and leaves the goods as they were. Your grocer is selling lots of it at five cents a cake.

DRIFTING AWAY.

Each recurring Decoration Day, as it comes round with the regular revolution of time's remorseless grind, furnishes more emphatic evidence of the fact that the patriotic, grateful American people are thoughtlessly permitting themselves to drift away from the true spirit of the day.

It is but natural that each oncoming generation, removed in fact another degree from those who suffered and died, that we might have the blessings of this enduring nation of the people, secure to us and our posterity, should possess in a little less marked degree that true sentiment which should rule the one day set apart to commemorate the deeds of valor on field of battle.

It is but natural that this should be true and it is true. Regrettable to be sure, but one of those cold facts of nature, the existence of which must be admitted.

Consequently an effort should be made to keep the observance of the day holy to its purposes and to do this requires aggressive action on the part of a grateful but naturally thoughtless generation which has come upon the stage of action since the great struggle between the North and the South.

The people should take hold of themselves and govern their conduct so that Decoration Day's true sentiment may not be lost sight of in that other sentiment just as holy but always near to the present generation—love for the memory of those near and dear who have crossed over into the eternal land.

On Decoration day this year that profusion of floral offerings on soldiers graves was painfully lacking, while other graves bore the abundance which testified materially of that love which has no limit.

It is natural that this should be true. To the most recent wound that balm which public attestation of love and memory affords relief is applied and to that wound from which the torrent of grief is flowing strongest, it is but natural that human beings turn to the one solace which is afforded by carrying flowers to the last resting place, be resorted to in an effort to close the wound which time only can heal.

We have all the long year, every day of it, save one, for ourselves and our departed dear ones and the old soldiers have only one day when humanity busy with its own cares and busy with its own close griefs, can turn aside and honor the memory of those who are close now to many only by memory or in the knowledge of deeds accomplished and heroic sacrifices made, that we might have our present wealth of home and country.

The graves of the old soldiers in these days receive only what is left of the abundance which nature provides on this day, when a grateful people should strew flowers generously on their last earthly home.

It doesn't look like just exactly the square thing to do.

The patriotic people of this land should, on this one day, place upon the graves of the nation's dead the whole of nature's bountiful offerings; they should surrender their personal griefs and personal losses and personal affairs and give material manifestation of their love and gratitude to the memory of those who suffered and died. It is a nation's loss and a nation's expression of loving memory and undying gratitude, and the people are the nation and they should not selfishly appropriate the sacred day to their own purposes, no matter how human or how holy those purposes may be. The dead would join in the Decoration Day services if they were living.

Give on this one day all to the nation's dead, and on every other day in all the year give to those who were nearer and dearer in a personal sense.

Pitifully scant are some of the decorations on the graves of soldiers who sleep in Washington cemetery.

Some remedy for this unintentional, this thoughtless wrong should be devised. Just what the remedy is, it is not the purpose now to suggest, but that the people will see to it soon, by legislation or by burial ground regulations, that the true spirit of the day shall not further be forgotten, is certain.

Each day the ranks of the Grand Army are growing thinner, each day the survivors grow more feeble and each day the busy world moves on and away from the scenes which placed a nation, then, now and forever, under obligations to the brave boys, who fought on many bloody fields of battle, and now that the generations, then unborn, have come upon the scene, and in the nature of human beings are not in as close touch with those men and those times, the enactment of regulatory provisions of some sort is at least advisable.

Decoration Day is set aside for the decoration of the graves of the nation's defenders and for no other purpose.

Poetry—Today

HE LOVES THEM ALL.

I'm stuck on Ted, you bet, you bet;
I hope he'll punch 'em harder yet,
And smash 'em all along the line—
Ah, Teddy's doing work that's fine.

I like Bill Taft, indeed I do;
He's pretty good at pounding, too.
He's got a good and level head—
I like the way he goes for Ted.

And La Follette is not so slow;
Both Bill and Ted, he tries to show,
Are not one bit fit for the place—
That both of them should quit the race.

I raise my hat to Ted, I do;
I take it off to William, too.
To La Follette I tip the same—
Oh, don't they play a corking game?

What's that you say? "How can it be
That I admire all of the three?"
The answer's easy, sir, to that—
Because I am a Democrat.

Uncle Sam and The Humane Society

Much interest has been awakened among humane societies by the action of an officer of the New York Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals in holding up a team carrying U. S. mail. The horse attached to the wagon was exhausted, and the agent claimed that this contractor who was transporting the government mail had no right to violate the anti-cruelty laws of the state. We are glad to learn, from the letter of Postmaster-General Hitchcock that the federal authorities do not claim any special privilege here over other people. The letter from Mr. Hitchcock to Col. Wagstaff, president of the American S. P. C. A. is, in part, as follows:

Sir: Replying to your letter of the 13th instant, in which you ask for an indication of the views of the Department regarding the enforcement of state laws for the prevention of cruelty to animals, with particular reference to the mail service, I beg to inform you that carriers of mail are not exempt by reason of their employment from operation of state or local laws concerning cruelty to animals, but as far as known, where violations of those laws have occurred, the state authorities have co-operated with the Department with a view to reducing the delay to the mails in such cases to a minimum.

As an example of such co-operation the conditions in New York City are cited, where, it is understood, a paragraph was inserted in the instructions to policemen some years ago to the effect that, when it became necessary to arrest a driver of a mail wagon while in the discharge of his official duties, the policeman should accompany the driver to his destination before removing him from the mail wagon.

In this connection, and in face of the fact that, as a rule, the horses of the contractors who carry the mail are in such poor condition, often thin, lame, broken down, it will surprise our readers to know that the contract signed with the government by these men demands that the horses used shall be kept in "first-class condition, and the cruel treatment of any animal, while in performance of service, is a sufficient cause for imposing a fine on the contractor, or requiring the dismissal of the employee responsible for the act, or both." How sadly this contract is violated we all know. The average mail horse is in anything but "first-class condition."—Our Dumb Animals.

Former Resident Crippled For Life

A few days ago while Day Mahdrah, 27, a painter, formerly residing in this city, now of 109 W. Rich street, Columbus, was at work on a swinging scaffold, three stories from the pavement, he slipped and fell to the pavement, receiving injuries which will result in his being a cripple for life.

He was rushed to St. Francis hospital where medical and surgical attention was given him, and later he was removed to his home where he still remains in a very bad condition.

On Decoration day this year that profusion of floral offerings on soldiers graves was painfully lacking, while other graves bore the abundance which testified materially of that love which has no limit.

It is natural that this should be true. To the most recent wound that balm which public attestation of love and memory affords relief is applied and to that wound from which the torrent of grief is flowing strongest, it is but natural that human beings turn to the one solace which is afforded by carrying flowers to the last resting place, be resorted to in an effort to close the wound which time only can heal.

We have all the long year, every day of it, save one, for ourselves and our departed dear ones and the old soldiers have only one day when humanity busy with its own cares and busy with its own close griefs, can turn aside and honor the memory of those who are close now to many only by memory or in the knowledge of deeds accomplished and heroic sacrifices made, that we might have our present wealth of home and country.

The graves of the old soldiers in these days receive only what is left of the abundance which nature provides on this day, when a grateful people should strew flowers generously on their last earthly home.

It doesn't look like just exactly the square thing to do.

The patriotic people of this land should, on this one day, place upon the graves of the nation's dead the whole of nature's bountiful offerings; they should surrender their personal griefs and personal losses and personal affairs and give material manifestation of their love and gratitude to the memory of those who suffered and died. It is a nation's loss and a nation's expression of loving memory and undying gratitude, and the people are the nation and they should not selfishly appropriate the sacred day to their own purposes, no matter how human or how holy those purposes may be. The dead would join in the Decoration Day services if they were living.

Give on this one day all to the nation's dead, and on every other day in all the year give to those who were nearer and dearer in a personal sense.

Pitifully scant are some of the decorations on the graves of soldiers who sleep in Washington cemetery.

Some remedy for this unintentional, this thoughtless wrong should be devised. Just what the remedy is, it is not the purpose now to suggest, but that the people will see it soon, by legislation or by burial ground regulations, that the true spirit of the day shall not further be forgotten, is certain.

Each day the ranks of the Grand Army are growing thinner, each day the survivors grow more feeble and each day the busy world moves on and away from the scenes which placed a nation, then, now and forever, under obligations to the brave boys, who fought on many bloody fields of battle, and now that the generations, then unborn, have come upon the scene, and in the nature of human beings are not in as close touch with those men and those times, the enactment of regulatory provisions of some sort is at least advisable.

Decoration Day is set aside for the decoration of the graves of the nation's defenders and for no other purpose.

HE LOVES THEM ALL.

I'm stuck on Ted, you bet, you bet;
I hope he'll punch 'em harder yet,
And smash 'em all along the line—
Ah, Teddy's doing work that's fine.

I like Bill Taft, indeed I do;
He's pretty good at pounding, too.
He's got a good and level head—
I like the way he goes for Ted.

And La Follette is not so slow;
Both Bill and Ted, he tries to show,
Are not one bit fit for the place—
That both of them should quit the race.

I raise my hat to Ted, I do;
I take it off to William, too.
To La Follette I tip the same—
Oh, don't they play a corking game?

What's that you say? "How can it be
That I admire all of the three?"
The answer's easy, sir, to that—
Because I am a Democrat.

Uncle Sam and The Humane Society

Much interest has been awakened among humane societies by the action of an officer of the New York Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals in holding up a team carrying U. S. mail. The horse attached to the wagon was exhausted, and the agent claimed that this contractor who was transporting the government mail had no right to violate the anti-cruelty laws of the state. We are glad to learn, from the letter of Postmaster-General Hitchcock that the federal authorities do not claim any special privilege here over other people. The letter from Mr. Hitchcock to Col. Wagstaff, president of the American S. P. C. A. is, in part, as follows:

Sir: Replying to your letter of the 13th instant, in which you ask for an indication of the views of the Department regarding the enforcement of state laws for the prevention of cruelty to animals, with particular reference to the mail service, I beg to inform you that carriers of mail are not exempt by reason of their employment from operation of state or local laws concerning cruelty to animals, but as far as known, where violations of those laws have occurred, the state authorities have co-operated with the Department with a view to reducing the delay to the mails in such cases to a minimum.

As an example of such co-operation the conditions in New York City are cited, where, it is understood, a paragraph was inserted in the instructions to policemen some years ago to the effect that, when it became necessary to arrest a driver of a mail wagon while in the discharge of his official duties, the policeman should accompany the driver to his destination before removing him from the mail wagon.

In this connection, and in face of the fact that, as a rule, the horses of the contractors who carry the mail are in such poor condition, often thin, lame, broken down, it will surprise our readers to know that the contract signed with the government by these men demands that the horses used shall be kept in "first-class condition, and the cruel treatment of any animal, while in performance of service, is a sufficient cause for imposing a fine on the contractor, or requiring the dismissal of the employee responsible for the act, or both." How sadly this contract is violated we all know. The average mail horse is in anything but "first-class condition."—Our Dumb Animals.

Cincinnati, June 1, 1912.

Despite the recent defeats suffered by the Reds, the local followers of the team have not lost confidence in O'Day's men, and feel that long before the present trip is over the team will be up where it belongs, doing battle for the leading position. While it is clear that the New Yorks are going better than any of the other teams just at present, due to the superiority of their pitching department the fact must not be overlooked that the Giants have not suffered any handicaps this season in the way of having players injured. It was this freedom from accidents that allowed the New Yorks to win the pennant last season, and it will be the same sort of luck that will have to land them the flag this year. The Reds have been minus the services of several of their best players for some time. With Bates and Bescher on the sick list during the greater part of the series with the New Yorks, the team lost its stride, and seems to have been unable to regain it so far. However, the material for better results is there, and any day now may see the turn of the tide, with the team again going the gait that leads to high honors.

President Herrmann and Manager O'Day are searching the base ball universe with a fine-tooth comb in an effort to land a pitcher or two to strengthen the team in the twirling department. The recent losses of games has been attributable to a larger extent to lack of strength in the box than to any other cause. It begins to look as if two or three of the veteran twirlers on the team have reached that stage where they no longer can be depended upon to deliver the high grade of goods required on a club of the general excellence of the Reds. As soon as promising material can be obtained to take the

UNITED STATES LEAGUE FAST

"Bugs" Raymond and Claude Ritchey Among the Veterans That Could Not Stand the Pace.

The United States League is too fast for some of the veterans—most any league would be. Claude Ritchey has been released by the Pittsburgh club of the independent organization and "Bugs" Raymond has had the our-place of these men they undoubtedly will be disposed of. Negotiations are said to be on for one of the Chicago twirlers in exchange for Biddle Grant third baseman. If this deal goes through the team will have four reliable twirlers to work regularly, and it is certain that that number of good men is sufficient to bring the desired results.

Base ball experts profess to believe that the fight for the world's championship this year again will be between the New York Nationals and the Philadelphia Americans, despite the fact that the Chicago Americans are leading in their league by a considerable margin. The argument is advanced that the Athletics are just as good as they were last year, but have not yet struck their stride. It will be recalled that last year they did not forge to the front until the season had been farther advanced than it is at present. Then the Detroiters were setting the pace, and making it exceedingly hot. However, the Mackmen came from behind and won easily. And the consensus of opinion appears to be that they'll repeat the performance before long. The Chicago White Sox are going so good because of better management and because Callahan has developed several youngsters who have filled the holes that have existed in the team for some time.

The end of the strike of the Detroit players because of the suspension of Ty Cobb came to an end really sooner than was expected. However, it has always been found that a player's most vulnerable spot is his pocketbook, and so, when President Johnson announced that every day the players remained out of the game would mean a fine of $50 for each man, they hustled back into the uniforms. The players now threaten to organize for "protection," but the only protection they seem to need is from themselves.

Several additional classy athletes have been added to the list of American competitors in the Olympic games, to be held in Stockholm in July. These men are Rhodes scholars at Oxford, England, and for the past two seasons have been winners in their various departments of athletics. So good have been their records that they will not be required to enter the preliminary competitions in order to secure places on the team.

During the next four weeks local lovers of the racing game will be given an opportunity to witness as high class contests as will be seen on any track this season. Latonia opened its fetes on Decoration for a meet of twenty-four days, and during that time the best horses now in training in America will start. The big Latonia Derby will be run on June 8, with an unusually classy list of entries.

Both Jim Flynn and Jack Johnson now are training hard for their bout at Las Vegas, N. M. Johnson has the hardest task cut out for him, as he has been neglecting his physical condition for a long time. However, he promises to be in perfect trim when the bell sounds. As yet no wagers of importance have been made on the match, sporting men generally desiring to learn more of the condition of the principals before venturing any money on the result.

Not Guilty Plea Entered by 'Leggers'

Hoggy Bainter and Albert Denner, who were arrested in Circleville and brought to this city to face a charge of bootlegging, were arraigned before Mayor Smith Friday and both entered pleas of not guilty, whereupon their trial was set for Monday morning, June 3rd, and they were remanded back to the county jail.

Although the men entered a plea of guilty, through their attorney they asked the right to change the plea at any time they desired before the trial.

It is also claimed that both men frankly admitted to Chief McCoy, and Mayor Smith that they were guilty of selling intoxicants. This confession was made at the jail a short time before they were arraigned, it is said.

Likes Eccentric Players.

The average man in charge of a ball team tries to steer clear of eccentric ball players, but there is one exception to this rule, Joe Cantillon. It is questionable if there was ever a team which numbered among its members as many individuals who, in the parlance of the game, are called "bugs" as are to be found on Cantillon's Minneapolis team this season. Waddell, Altizer and Ferris are but three of his players who are, to say the least, peculiar, but there are others, including Rossman, once a star with the Tigers. Cantillon seems to delight in gathering about him this class of players and, peculiarly enough, he seems to have made up another winning combination in this way.

Best Hitting Teams

Championship Pennants Won by Good, Hard Slugging.

Batting Counts More in Long Run Than Team Work, Base Running or Inside Play—Some Few Exceptions to the Rule.

Batting is what wins pennants in spite of the fact that now and then some fan or baseball expert will argue that team work or base running or inside play is the factor that counts more than base hits in the winning of games. The claim is frequently made that the best batting team often finishes behind teams in the pennant race that are not noted for their prowess with the bat.

Their argument has been good a few times, but in the majority of cases the club that leads the league in batting also wins the blue ribbon. It can't be denied that the team that makes the most hits gets the chances to steal the most bases and otherwise takes chances that the weak batting teams cannot.

There are, of course, exceptions to the rule. The Athletics, winners of the American League pennant last season, led all the other teams with a club batting average of .294 per cent. The Giants, prospective winners of the National League race, led the league with an average of .271 per cent.

In 1910 the Giants batted some seven points better than Chicago, yet the Cubs won the pennant. On the other hand, the Athletics won out and led in batting also. In 1909 the batting leaders in the big leagues were Detroit and Pittsburg, both champions. In 1908 Detroit had the best batting outfit in the America and won the bunting, but New York led the Chicago pennant winners at the bat.

Detroit led both ways in 1907, but the champion Cubs were third by four points in the National League batting list. Back in 1906 the Naps carried off the batting honors by a big margin, while the White Sox, who took off the championship, were absolutely last as hitters, the Naps finishing third. The Cubs, however, led in victories and batting that season, only to lose the world's series to the hitless wonders.

In 1905 the Athletics, second to the Naps in batting, won the pennant and then lost the series to the Giants, who had led the National League batters. This resume shows that in the last six years four American League pennant winners have also led the league in batting, while in the National League three pennant winners have also been batting leaders, the champions twice being the runners-up in hitting.

Inside Ball Puzzle

Explanation of Term That Bothers Many Enthusiasts.

In the Long Run Team Which Plays Game as It Should From Start of Season to End Will Finish Better Than Its Rival.

"Inside ball" is a term which puzzles many enthusiasts. The expression immediately brings to mind secret manipulations on the diamond and is generally passed up as being too deep. In reality inside ball is nothing more or less than playing the game. There is no mystery about it. Of course, every major league and minor league squad has its "signs," or signals as they are called by the fans, writes Malcolm McLean in the Chicago Evening Post. But so have football teams and basketball squads.

Take the average ball game. The home team is at bat, nobody is down and there's a runner on first. The batter tries to lay down a sacrifice bunt, and misses the ball. "Aw, hit 'er out," yells a bleacherite in disgust. Then he turns to his neighbor and growls. "Gee, I can't stand for that kind of a game. What's that guy trying to bunt for? Why don't he hit 'em to the fence?"

This instance is one of the many "mysteries" of inside ball. It's playing the game to sacrifice that man around to second, from which point he can easily score on a single. If the batter tries to hit safely right from the jump there's the immediate danger of a double play, and two men out.

Take another case. There's a man on first and a left-hander at bat. Such a hitter generally slaps one to right field or between first and second. So, naturally, as soon as the ball is hit the shortstop runs to cover second in the hopes of negotiating a double play. If the batter hits right-handed the second baseman usually covers second. Yet this is the so-called inside ball which has so many fans wondering what's it all about.

The Cubs in the past were called masters of inside ball. The reason was they had played together so long that every man knew the instant the ball was hit just what to do under the circumstances. In other words, it was second sense or "inside ball" if you prefer. Yet this style of play doesn't always win—far to the contrary. Frequently the Boston Red Sox have thrown inside ball to the winds and played the hit-and-run game instead of sacrificing. They broke up the defense of the rival teams by pulling stuff when not expected. It's far more spectacular if they get away with it. For instance, with first and second occupied and none out, to have the batter knock the ball over the fence at the first pitch warms the cockles of the heart more than a dinky little bunt and an out at first.

But you'll find that in the long run the team which plays the game as it should from the start of the season to the end will finish better than its rival, if both squads are about equal in strength. Cap Anson says the old Chicago Colts used as much inside ball as the great teams of today, and proves his point. So if it wasn't mysterious thirty years ago it shouldn't be so today.

Prisoner Shows Fight Marshal's Leg Broken

Marshal James Smith of South Charleston was thrown to the ground in a scuffle which followed his attempt to arrest a man named Massey, on a charge of intoxication, Thursday afternoon, and as a result of the fall his left leg was fractured. Marshal Smith, after arresting his man, started to take him to the station house, but he resisted.

Losing his footing, the marshal fell to the ground, Massey on top of him. In some manner his left leg was twisted underneath his body and with the combined weight of Massey on it the bone was fractured. Friends came to Marshal Smith's assistance, some of them putting Massey under lock and key, while others carried the injured man to his home.

While painful, the injury is not serious, but it will be some time before the officer will be able to resume his duties.

drawn on his efforts to pitch for Chicago. Another player released by Pittsburgh is Jack Himes, formerly a first baseman in the T. State and other minor leagues.

place of these men they undoubtedly will be disposed of. Negotiations are said to be on for one of the Chicago twirlers in exchange for Biddie Grant third baseman. If this deal goes through the team will have four reliable twirlers to work regularly, and it is certain that that number of good men is sufficient to bring the desired results.

Base ball experts profess to believe that the fight for the world's championship this year again will be between the New York Nationals and the Philadelphia Americans, despite the fact that the Chicago Americans are leading in their league by a considerable margin. The argument is advanced that the Athletics are just as good as they were last year, but have not yet struck their stride. It will be recalled that last year they did not forge to the front until the season had been farther advanced than it is at present. Then the Detroiters were setting the pace, and making it exceedingly hot. However, the Mackmen came from behind and won easily. And the consensus of opinion appears to be that they'll repeat the performance before long. The Chicago White Sox are going so good because of better management and because Callahan has developed several youngsters who have filled the holes that have existed in the team for some time.

The end of the strike of the Detroit players because of the suspension of Ty Cobb came to an end really sooner than was expected. However, it has always been found that a player's most vulnerable spot is his pocketbook, and so, when President Johnson announced that every day the players remained out of the game would mean a fine of $50 for each man, they hustled back into the uniforms. The players now threaten to organize for "protection," but the only protection they seem to need is from themselves.

Several additional classy athletes have been added to the list of American competitors in the Olympic games, to be held in Stockholm in July. These men are Rhodes scholars at Oxford, England, and for the past two seasons have been winners in their various departments of athletics. So good have been their records that they will not be required to enter the preliminary competitions in order to secure places on the team.

During the next four weeks local lovers of the racing game will be given an opportunity to witness as high class contests as will be seen on any track this season. Latonia opened its fetes on Decoration for a meet of twenty-four days, and during that time the best horses now in training in America will start. The big Latonia Derby will be run on June 8, with an unusually classy list of entries.

Both Jim Flynn and Jack Johnson now are training hard for their bout at Las Vegas, N. M. Johnson has the hardest task cut out for him, as he has been neglecting his physical condition for a long time. However, he promises to be in perfect trim when the bell sounds. As yet no wagers of importance have been made on the match, sporting men generally desiring to learn more of the condition of the principals before venturing any money on the result.

Not Guilty Plea Entered by 'Leggers'

Hoggy Bainter and Albert Denner, who were arrested in Circleville and brought to this city to face a charge of bootlegging, were arraigned before Mayor Smith Friday and both entered pleas of not guilty, whereupon their trial was set for Monday morning, June 3rd, and they were remanded back to the county jail.

Although the men entered a plea of guilty, through their attorney they asked the right to change the plea at any time they desired before the trial.

It is also claimed that both men frankly admitted to Chief McCoy, and Mayor Smith that they were guilty of selling intoxicants. This confession was made at the jail a short time before they were arraigned, it is said.

Likes Eccentric Players.

The average man in charge of a ball team tries to steer clear of eccentric ball players, but there is one exception to this rule, Joe Cantillon. It is questionable if there was ever a team which numbered among its members as many individuals who, in the parlance of the game, are called "bugs" as are to be found on Cantillon's Minneapolis team this season. Waddell, Altizer and Ferris are but three of his players who are, to say the least, peculiar, but there are others, including Rossman, once a star with the Tigers. Cantillon seems to delight in gathering about him this class of players and, peculiarly enough, he seems to have made up another winning combination in this way.

Best Hitting Teams

Championship Pennants Won by Good, Hard Slugging.

Batting Counts More in Long Run Than Team Work, Base Running or Inside Play—Some Few Exceptions to the Rule.

Batting is what wins pennants in spite of the fact that now and then some fan or baseball expert will argue that team work or base running or inside play is the factor that counts more than base hits in the winning of games. The claim is frequently made that the best batting team often finishes behind teams in the pennant race that are not noted for their prowess with the bat.

Their argument has been good a few times, but in the majority of cases the club that leads the league in batting also wins the blue ribbon. It can't be denied that the team that makes the most hits gets the chances to steal the most bases and otherwise takes chances that the weak batting teams cannot.

There are, of course, exceptions to the rule. The Athletics, winners of the American League pennant last season, led all the other teams with a club batting average of .294 per cent. The Giants, prospective winners of the National League race, led the league with an average of .271 per cent.

In 1910 the Giants batted some seven points better than Chicago, yet the Cubs won the pennant. On the other hand, the Athletics won out and led in batting also. In 1909 the batting leaders in the big leagues were Detroit and Pittsburg, both champions. In 1908 Detroit had the best batting outfit in the America and won the hunting, but New York led the Chicago pennant winners at the bat.

Detroit led both ways in 1907, but the champion Cubs were third by four points in the National League batting list. Back in 1905 the Naps carried off the batting honors by a big margin, while the White Sox, who took off the championship, were absolutely last as hitters, the Naps finishing third. The Cubs, however, led in victories and batting that season, only to lose the world's series to the hitless wonders.

In 1905 the Athletics, second to the Naps in batting, won the pennant and then lost the series to the Giants, who had led the National League batters.

This resume shows that in the last six years four American League pennant winners have also led the league in batting, while in the National League three pennant winners have also been batting leaders, the champions twice being the runners-up in hitting.

Inside Ball Puzzle

Explanation of Term That Bothers Many Enthusiasts.

In the Long Run Team Which Plays Game as It Should From Start of Season to End Will Finish Better Than Its Rival.

"Inside ball" is a term which puzzles many enthusiasts. The expression immediately brings to mind secret manipulations on the diamond and is generally passed up as being too deep. In reality inside ball is nothing more or less than playing the game. There is no mystery about it. Of course, every major league and minor league squad has its "signs," or signals as they are called by the fans, writes Malcolm McLean in the Chicago Evening Post. But so have football teams and basketball squads.

Take the average ball game. The home team is at bat, nobody is down and there's a runner on first. The batter tries to lay down a sacrifice bunt, and misses the ball. "Aw, hit 'er out," yells a bleacherite in disgust. Then he turns to his neighbor and growls. "Gee, I can't stand for that kind of a game. What's that guy trying to bunt for? Why don't he hit 'em to the fence?"

This instance is one of the many "mysteries" of inside ball. It's playing the game to sacrifice that man around to second, from which point he can easily score on a single. If the batter tries to hit safely right from the jump there's the immediate danger of a double play, and two men out.

Take another case. There's a man on first and a left-hander at bat. Such a hitter generally slaps one to right field or between first and second. So, naturally, as soon as the ball is hit the shortstop runs to cover second in the hopes of negotiating a double play. If the batter hits right-handed the second baseman usually covers second. Yet this is the so-called inside ball which has so many fans wondering what's it all about.

The Cubs in the past were called masters of inside ball. The reason was they had played together so long that every man knew the instant the ball was hit just what to do under the circumstances. In other words, it was second sense or "inside ball" if you prefer.

Yet this style of play doesn't always win—far to the contrary. Frequently the Boston Red Sox have thrown inside ball to the winds and played the hit-and-run game instead of sacrificing. They broke up the defense of the rival teams by pulling stuff when not expected. It's far more spectacular if they get away with it. For instance, with first and second occupied and none out, to have the batter knock the ball over the fence at the first pitch warms the cockles of the heart more than a dinky little bunt and an out at first.

But you'll find that in the long run the team which plays the game as it should from the start of the season to the end will finish better than its rival, if both squads are about equal in strength. Cap Anson says the old Chicago Colts used as much inside ball as the great teams of today, and proves his point. So if it wasn't mysterious thirty years ago it shouldn't be so today.

Prisoner Shows Fight Marshal's Leg Broken

Marshal James Smith of South Charleston was thrown to the ground in a scuffle which followed his attempt to arrest a man named Massey, on a charge of intoxication, Thursday afternoon, and as a result of the fall his left leg was fractured. Marshal Smith, after arresting his man, started to take him to the station house, but he resisted.

Losing his footing, the marshal fell to the ground, Massey on top of him. In some manner his left leg was twisted underneath his body and with the combined weight of Massey on it the bone was fractured. Friends came to Marshal Smith's assistance, some of them putting Massey under lock and key, while others carried the injured man to his home.

Plowing By Moonlight Using Tractor Gang Plow

Day and night shifts in factories are not uncommon, but a day and night shift on the farm is very uncommon to say the least, especially when the work is breaking ground by the aid of a large coal oil tractor six-bottom gang plow.

For several days Will E. Martin has had a coal oil tractor running day and night, two sets of employees operating the big plow, and turning 25 acres of land every 24 hours, or more than one acre every hour.

The chug, chug, chug of the engine may be heard day and night on the Charles Persinger farm where Mr. Martin has contracted for the plowing of several hundred acres of land for planting corn. The Persinger farm is located five miles east of town on the Circleville pike, and as soon as the plowing is finished on it the plow will be taken to Dr. L. P. Howell's farm.

Nice, porcelain bath tub, too; and all the folks thought it was just lovely. ## Plowing By Moonlight Using Tractor Gang Plow

Day and night shifts in factories are not uncommon, but a day and night shift on the farm is very uncommon to say the least, especially when the work is breaking ground by the aid of a large coal oil tractor six-bottom gang plow.

For several days Will E. Martin has had a coal oil tractor running day and night, two sets of employees operating the big plow, and turning 25 acres of land every 24 hours, or more than one acre every hour.

The chug, chug, chug of the engine may be heard day and night on the Charles Persinger farm where Mr. Martin has contracted for the plowing of several hundred acres of land for planting corn. The Persinger farm is located five miles east of town on the Circleville pike, and as soon as the plowing is finished on it the plow will be taken to Dr. L. P. Howell's farm.

New Warehouse And Larger Boiler

A boiler inspector recently visited New Holland and condemned the old boiler of the Canning Company at that place, and the company will install a new boiler of 100 horse power.

In addition to the new boiler, a large warehouse, 36 by 86 feet will be constructed to take care of the increased amount of canned goods which the factory will put up during the coming season.

WHO SCRATCHED

THE BATH TUB? Nice, porcelain bath tub, too; and all the folks thought it was just lovely. But somebody was washing it out and used common laundry soap—the yellow kind with rosin and strong caustic in it—and away went the enamel and the finish. (If that kind of soap will harm porcelain enamel, what won't it do to clothes?) "Easy Task Soap" the pure, white, antiseptic, five-cents-a-cake kind, will not harm anything but dirt. Try two cakes and get your money back if it isn't as represented.

A WOMAN'S HANDS.

It isn't work that ruins the hands—it is the soap, the common, dangerous yellow rosin soap. It will eat into and rot cloth, so what won't it do to that delicate skin of a woman's hands? "Easy Task Soap" is pure and antiseptic; it has no nasty, disagreeable odor; it does the cleaning for you and you don't have to wear out your skin and your muscles with rubbing. As it costs no more than poor soaps, why should you ruin your hands? Your grocer has it.

Electric Road For Ohio River Valley

That the proposed Pittsburg & Cincinnati traction line along the north side of the Ohio river will be built in the near future now looks very encouraging, as a $10,000 preliminary bond has been filed with the county auditor in this and other counties through which the road passes.

The provisions of this bond are in substance that in the construction of the line a good roadway shall be kept open sufficient for the traveling public, and that the county shall be kept blameless on account of injury to person or property because of any act or neglect in construction of the road.

The limit on the right-of-way franchise granted the promoting company by the Adams county commissioners expired May 22, and the company saved their rights by beginning actual construction work a few miles above Manchester a few days previous to the expiration of the time

Rebellion Of Convicts Has Passed Into History

Strike of Convicts Ends Contract Labor System at Penitentiary.
Columbus, O., June 1.—Six years after the passage of the Wertz law abolishing contract labor in Ohio penal institutions, the law was made operative at the penitentiary this morning, following the refusal yesterday of 137 convicts to work in the shops of the Columbus Bolt Works and the Lanman company, both of which had been ordered to vacate the premises several times during the last few months.

President Thurman of the board of administration first notified the warden that all contract work must cease except that the finishing shops would be allowed to run a day or two. Then he got to thinking how often the board had set a date for the end of contract labor without getting anywhere and, getting his dander up, ordered all the contractors to leave the pen last night. If there is any finishing to be done it will be done outside the pen, says Thurman.

HIS UNDOING

Indiana Delegate Resigns After Unpleasant Episode at Minneapolis.

Kokomo, Ind., June 1.—Confronted last week by two of his church brethren in a room in a hotel at Minneapolis, where he had registered with an unknown woman as his wife, and being a delegate to the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, C. C. Cissell of this city, superintendent of the Logansport district of the North Indiana conference, has resigned his position and severed his connection with the church. The woman concerned in the affair was from Indianapolis.

Limit.

A. O. Kirschner, a former Manchester citizen, now living in Cincinnati, has charge of the promoting company.

In a letter to Mr. Kirschner from Mr. Howland, of England, president of the company, he says: "Mr. Darwin's cabled report accepted by the English syndicate. Success certain." Mr. Darwin passed over the route some few weeks since and if his report compared with the report made by the promoters the road will be constructed.

It develops that the London, England, syndicate which is to finance the proposed Cincinnati and Pittsburg traction line, has secured an option on the Interurban Railway & Terminal company operating several lines out of Cincinnati.

Representatives of the syndicate are also reported ready to take an option on the Cincinnati, Georgetown & Portsmouth traction company and the time is believed not far off when there will be a merger of all southern Ohio traction lines.—Defender (Adams County.)

C. A. P. C.—Abraham's Sacrifice

This Bible story lends itself beautifully to Cinematographic representation.

The story of the great love of Abraham for his son, Isaac. The command of Jehovah to sacrifice his son. Abraham's compliance with God's order, and the angel's intervention at the last moment to prevent the actual sacrifice, is all beautifully shown in this highly interesting film.

The Defeat of 'The Brewery Gang' A Political Story

New Welcome To The Birds

The value of the birds to the whole human race and the importance of preserving and increasing their numbers, as essential to the very existence of all other forms of life, are vital problems that are being more carefully considered by most of the states and also the federal government. Ornithologist, economist and humanitarian are making united efforts in the matter of bird conservation and results show a better understanding and a higher regard for every kind of bird. The following effective briefs are from an address by C. D. Howe, state ornithologist of Vermont:

Each individual bird is working all the time to preserve vegetable life from the depredation of insects. Birds eat the seed of many injurious weeds that infest the growing crops. They should be protected and cared for in every possible way. The barn-swallow has a direct relation to the milk supply, for it feeds upon the flies that are about the barns and trouble the cattle. Holes should be made in the gables of barns to allow them a chance to get in and nest among the rafters, or a cleat be nailed along under the eaves to allow them a chance to nest there.

All wild shrubs and trees, bearing fruit that the birds love, should be left growing by the roads and fences. They will attract the birds, and they prefer these to cultivated fruit. The purple martin is said to be capable of doing away with spraying in orchards where it abounds. One man in Pennsylvania advertises purple martins for sale and says that his orchard grows fine fruit without spraying.

Were our birds to become extinct, all life would soon become extinct. Insect life would in a period of three years destroy vegetation, when all men and animals, except perhaps fishes, would die for lack of sustenance. Soon the waters would become polluted and fish die for lack of food, and the earth would be destitute of life in any form.

Clinton Countian Is Given Relief

A special despatch from Washington, D. C., of May 30, says:

The Senate today passed a bill for the relief of Erskine R. K. Hayes, a former deputy clerk of the Clinton County (Ohio) Courts, who was terribly injured in this city while serving as a laborer in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing in 1902.

Senator Burton, of Ohio, was instrumental in having the Committee on Claims report out the bill, and it passed, after being amended, so as to cut the appropriation from $10,000 to $5,000.

The bill provides that $3,000 of the amount shall be payable at once and the balance in monthly installments of $100.

This was done to assist the now helpless man to pay off a mortgage on his home and to help him in receiving immediate medical attention.

Hayes fell into an excavation in the sub-basement of the Government Building, breaking an arm and severely injuring his spine. The latter injury has made him a cripple for life and a great sufferer.

Skeletons Unearthed In Wendle Gravel Pit

With every bone well preserved and practically every tooth in place, two huge skeletons of prehistoric man were unearthed in a gravel bank on the Ad Wendle farm, north of this city, on the Prairie pike, Friday, and indications are that the remains are those of a man and his wife, probably of more than ordinary prominence in their day.

The skeletons were found two and one-half feet under the surface, and had evidently been buried in one grave, side by side. As usual with the finding of the bones, the remains rested upon the hard layer of "hard pan" covering the gravel.

One of the skeletons was much larger than the other, and the man must have been considerable over six feet in height and of massive build, with square jaw, prominent cheek bones, and an unusually large skull. The teeth indicated that the man was probably fifty years of age at death.

Parts of the remains were gathered up by workmen and carried away, George Perry of this city securing one of the jaw bones.

A WOMAN'S HANDS.
 It isn't work that ruins the hands—it is the soap, the common, dangerous yellow rosin soap. It will eat into and rot cloth, so what won't it do to that delicate skin of a woman's hands? "Easy Task Soap" is pure and antiseptic; it does the cleaning for you and you don't have to wear out your skin and your muscles with rubbing. As it costs no more than poor soaps, why should you ruin your hands? Your grocer has it.

That the proposed Pittsburg & Cincinnati traction line along the north side of the Ohio river will be built in the near future now looks very encouraging, as a $10,000 preliminary bond has been filed with the county auditor in this and other counties through which the road passes.

The provisions of this bond are in substance that in the construction of the line a good roadway shall be kept open sufficient for the traveling public, and that the county shall be kept blameless on account of injury to person or property because of any act or neglect in construction of the road.

The limit on the right-of-way franchise granted the promoting company by the Adams county commissioners expired May 22, and the company saved their rights by beginning actual construction work a few miles above Manchester a few days previous to the expiration of the time

Strike of Convicts Ends Contract Labor System at Penitentiary.
 Columbus, O., June 1. — Six years after the passage of the Wertz law abolishing contract labor in Ohio penal institutions, the law was made operative at the penitentiary this morning, following the refusal yesterday of 137 convicts to work in the shops of the Columbus Bolt Works and the Lanman company, both of which had been ordered to vacate the premises several times during the last few months.

President Thurman of the board of administration first notified the warden that all contract work must cease except that the finishing shops would be allowed to run a day or two. Then he got to thinking how often the board had set a date for the end of contract labor without getting anywhere and, getting his dander up, ordered all the contractors to leave the pen last night. If there is any finishing to be done it will be done outside the pen, says Thurman.

HIS UNDOING

Indiana Delegate Resigns After Unpleasant Episode at Minneapolis.
 Kokomo, Ind., June 1.—Confronted last week by two of his church brethren in a room in a hotel at Minneapolis, where he had registered with an unknown woman as his wife, and being a delegate to the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, C. C. Cissell of this city, superintendent of the Logansport district of the North Indiana conference, has resigned his position and severed his connection with the church. The woman concerned in the affair was from Indianapolis.

limit.
 A. O. Kirschner, a former Manchester citizen, now living in Cincinnati, has charge of the promoting company.

In a letter to Mr. Kirschner from Mr. Howland, of England, president of the company, he says: "Mr. Darwin's cabled report accepted by the English syndicate. Success certain." Mr. Darwin passed over the route some few weeks since and if his report compared with the report made by the promoters the road will be constructed.

It develops that the London, England, syndicate which is to finance the proposed Cincinnati and Pittsburg traction line, has secured an option on the Interurban Railway & Terminal company operating several lines out of Cincinnati.

Representatives of the syndicate are also reported ready to take an option on the Cincinnati, Georgetown & Portsmouth traction company and the time is believed not far off when there will be a merger of all southern Ohio traction lines.—Defender (Adams County.)

Wonderland C. A. P. C.—Abraham's Sacrifice

This Bible story lends itself beautifully to Cinematographic representation.

The story of the great love of Abraham for his son, Isaac. The command of Jehovah to sacrifice his son. Abraham's compliance with God's order, and the angel's intervention at the last moment to prevent the actual sacrifice, is all beautifully shown in this highly interesting film.

New Welcome To The Birds

The value of the birds to the whole human race and the importance of preserving and increasing their numbers, as essential to the very existence of all other forms of life, are vital problems that are being more carefully considered by most of the states and also the federal government. Ornithologist, economist and humanitarian are making united efforts in the matter of bird conservation and results show a better understanding and a higher regard for every kind of bird. The following effective briefs are from an address by C. D. Howe, state ornithologist of Vermont:

Each individual bird is working all the time to preserve vegetable life from the depredation of insects. Birds eat the seed of many injurious weeds that infest the growing crops. They should be protected and cared for in every possible way. The barnswallow has a direct relation to the milk supply, for it feeds upon the flies that are about the barns and trouble the cattle. Holes should be made in the gables of barns to allow them a chance to get in and nest among the rafters, or a cleat be nailed along under the eaves to allow them a chance to nest there.

All wild shrubs and trees, bearing fruit that the birds love, should be left growing by the roads and fences. They will attract the birds, and they prefer these to cultivated fruit. The purple martin is said to be capable of doing away with spraying in orchards where it abounds. One man in Pennsylvania advertises purple martins for sale and says that his orchard grows fine fruit without spraying.

Were our birds to become extinct, all life would soon become extinct. Insect life would in a period of three years destroy vegetation, when all men and animals, except perhaps fishes, would die for lack of sustenance. Soon the waters would become polluted and fish die for lack of food, and the earth would be destitute of life in any form.

The Circulation Of The Bible

The wonderful demand for the Bible continues. The total issues of the American Bible society at home and abroad in the last year were 3,691,201 of which 430,098 were Bibles, 670,728 Testaments and 2,590,375 parts of the Bible, such as the Acts or Matthew. The American Bible society has now been operating 96 years and in that time has issued 94,219,105 volumes. The total issues for the 96th year are 459,479 more volumes than in the 95th and are about twice as large as they were for 1906.

"The wonder of this work," says the report of the Bible society, "is in its continual expansion, or at least in the inviting opportunities for expansion, together with the absence of any hindrances like the Government opposition which in some countries has barred our way in past years. The only serious hindrances to seizing these opportunities arise in the United States—that is to say, they spring entirely from the problems connected with the financial support of the society."

The report tells of a new enthusiasm for missions in the churches with resultant stimulation of mission work in Asia and Africa, and this demands greater efforts from the society. The society is already laying plans to supply the Panama canal zone with the Scriptures. "In this latest addition to the territories of the United States," the report says, "we have to consider the permanent corps of workmen, the greatly increased commercial population and the thousands of sailors of all nations who will be passing continually through the canal."

Translation of the Bible into various tongues of the Philippine Islands is one of the recent achievements of the society. A New Testament in Ibanag has been completed and the society has co-operated with the British and Foreign Bible Society in revising the Tagalog New Testament. The Old Testament has been brought out in Panayan and the Pentateuch in Gebuan and Pampangan. A New Testament in Kurdish is being issued, too. The Scriptures in Siamese is being revised, as is also the Zulu version in Africa.

The society feels the effect of various political movements. A change in the government may broaden opportunities for circulating the Bible. The report says the Mexican revolution has increased the difficulties for the agency, but the circulation of Bibles has been almost as large as it was before the revolution began. The circulation in China has increased and on this the report comments: "This is all the more remarkable, considering the extraordinary hindrances there have been—plague, famine and revolution occurring all in one year." The area of distribution in China has been diminished, but the total demand is greater than before the revolution began.

An idea of the extent of the business transacted by the American Bible society may be obtained from the budget, which is over $800,000 for this year.—Tacoma Leader.

Champion Marksman

Ernest Miller, a member of the local militia company, now holds the United States record for rifle shooting, having made the best record at the state shoot at Camp Perry last week.

He made 97 out of a possible 100, thus breaking all former records. He also came second in the total scoring and will be one of the team of eight men who will go to Europe for the international matches in July.

Miller is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Miller and has been known as a crack shot for a long time.—Hillsboro Gazette.

N. and W. Man Goes to D. T. & I.

The placing of the receivership of the D. T. & I. in the hands of George P. Johnson, former general superintendent of the Norfolk and Western, has already been the means of Harry Weller receiving a fine promotion.

Mr. Weller is slated to take charge of the most important division of the D. T. & I. For several years he has been trainmaster of the Pocahontas division of the N. & W. Closely associated with George P. Johnson for a number of years in the railroad business it was rumored several days ago in railroad circles that Mr. Weller would soon follow Mr. Johnson to the D. T. & I., which, under Mr. Johnson's careful and systematic management should be placed on a paying basis.

Mr. Weller's friends here at the place of his nativity, join in wishing him all the success obtainable in his new position.—Chillicothe Gazette.

OLD DICKIE HOUSE

Has Had Every President as Its Guest Except Taft.

Washington.—On the Virginia side of the Great Falls of the Potomac, commonly known as "the Niagara of the South," fourteen miles from Washington, is an ancient building, the old Dickie house, connected with which is the pleasing tradition that every president of the United States has taken dinner beneath its roof tree, President Taft alone excepted. The old habitation, long famous for its fish and chicken dinners, is the only dwelling left of the departed City of Matildasville, that was called into being by the construction of the Potomac Company Canal, of which George Washington, after relinquishing his command at the close of the revolution, was promoter and president.

Generations ago the canal was abandoned and Matildasville vanished from the map. The old Dickie house alone remains. George Washington often ate beneath its roof. When the British captured Washington in 1814 President Madison and his cabinet, it is said, tarried for a meal before crossing the river. All the presidents but one are said by the descendants of the original owner of the house to have sat at the table in the little dining-room when visiting the falls and to have partaken of fish and chicken cooked in a style that has made the Dickie family famous for its culinary accomplishments. Some are skeptical enough to question this claim, but it is put forth with such stress that most visitors depart strong in the faith that they have eaten a meal in a room that has been honored by the presence of all the presidents but one. As yet President Taft has not sat in judgment upon a meal at Dickie's, and the absorbing ambition of the proprietor of the house is to make the list complete.

Since the completion of the trolley line to the Great Falls of the Potomac this beautiful work of nature has attracted a great interest among excursionists. The trip to the falls is one of the most popular in the vicinity of the national capital. Last year, 170,000 excursionists visited the falls. In addition, thousands of other sightseers made the trip by automobile or carriage on the Maryland side. This route is far more beautiful than the one on the Virginia side, for the road winds along the river and the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal to the famous Cabin John bridge, which was built when Jefferson Davis was secretary of war. During the civil war the name of Jefferson Davis, which was inscribed on the bridge, was chiseled out, but a few years ago it was replaced, an episode that attracted wide interest at the time. From here the road cuts across a beautiful hilly country to the Great Falls on the Maryland side, where there is a hotel of advanced age.

The falls are always changing, according to the height of the water. Above them is a dam which holds back the water for the Washington supply. A rise of one inch at the dam makes a rise of eight inches in the water as it passes over the falls and down the gorges. The spectacle is one of great majesty. The river splits and runs around a craggy island, and the two parts rush together again and pour thunderously between great rocks which split the flood into three separate waterfalls, as it tumbles over the precipice into the caudron. Here the water, rushing in from three angles, forms a great whirlpool and thence rushes through a narrow gorge with perpendicular walls of granite for about a mile, where it spreads out into a placid expanse.

Wants Clear Conscience.
New York.—That he might plead guilty to a theft in 1908 and die with a clear conscience, Daniel Loewy was carried on a stretcher into general session the other day before Judge Crain. Abraham Levy, his counsel, told the story of the robbery by Loewy of ten sable skins from his employer, the skins being valued at $1,750. Judge Crain then suspended sentence. Loewy is declared by physicians to be slowly dying.

He went to San Francisco in February, 1910, and while in the new Western hotel there was held up, shot and robbed by three unidentified men, who escaped. They took all the diamonds Loewy had.

ODD CUSTOMS OF GYPSIES

Marriage Ceremony Closed by Bride and Groom Jumping Over a Broom—Wed at Early Age.

London.—There are traditions of the marriage ceremony among certain gypsies in England consisting simply of jumping over a broom or besom, and it is only within the last fifty years that this custom has been extinct in Wales.

The besom was held by the father of the bridegroom or bride, and first the young man jumped over it, and then the young woman, whereupon the official would make some such remark as, "Now you are married."

Gypsies invariably marry at an early age, and as the parents are loath to lose their daughters, the girl frequently runs away with the young man of her choice. In numbers of cases there is no marriage ceremony. Only people who have lost their character go into a church to be married, said one of the Hearnings.

Incidentally he mentioned that German gypsies like to have their children baptized as often as possible, and the practice of successive baptism is not unknown in England.

In both England and Germany the food of a gypsy must on no account be touched by a woman's dress. On one occasion, said Mr. Thompson, he was having tea with a family when a boy of 16 hurried back a piece of bread at his mother because she had allowed it to touch her dress while she was cutting it. She remarked he was right not to eat it and she gave it to the dog.

The gypsy held very strong views on the value of chastity. As recently as 1875 an old Suffolk gypsy said the ancient punishment for immorality was burial alive, and he described a certain spot where, as a boy, he saw a girl undergo this punishment.

The corpse of a gypsy is usually carried to the grave by the mourners themselves, and the day after the funeral everything which had belonged to the dead, except money, is destroyed. Three vans had been burned during the last year. The harness and everything was placed in the van, soaked with paraffin and set on fire, and the ashes and the parts that could not be burned were buried, or, preferably, thrown into a river or the sea.

Crockery was broken and the fragments dropped from a ferry into the Mersey; in another case the unburned portions of a gypsy's belongings were carried miles in order to be dropped into the Tyne. Only three months ago, on the death of a baby a few months old, the family burned practically a new wagon which had cost £80.

The custom of destroying everything was due to the gypsies' fear that unless this were done the ghost of the dead person would return and haunt it.

"By the oath of my dead grandfather" is the most sacred oath a gypsy can swear.—London Chronicle.

BONUS OFFERED FOR TEETH

Unusual Activity to Collect False Molars in Massachusetts County Follows.

Greenfield, Mass.—"Wanted—Old false teeth. Send old artificial teeth. I mail you immediately three cents for each tooth received."

This advertisement, which appeared in the last issue of a Greenfield weekly newspaper, has caused unwonted activity on the part of Franklin county residents. The outgoing mail has assumed such proportions that the postmasters of several hamlets are hopeful that their receipts will be swelled sufficiently to secure them a higher salary rating.

Old teeth are being resurrected from attics, barns and abandoned wells. A Colbrun youth admits robbing a scarecrow in his great-uncle's cornfield of his great-grandfather's false teeth.

In one local cafe interest in the baseball pool is overshadowed by heavy wagers as to who can collect the greatest number of artificial teeth which have seen actual service.

The Circulation
Of The Bible

The wonderful demand for the Bible continues. The total issues of the American Bible society at home and abroad in the last year were 3,591,261 of which 410,098 were Bibles, 670,728 Testaments and 2,590,375 parts of the Bible, such as the Acts or Matthew. The American Bible society has now been operating 96 years and in that time has issued 94,219,105 volumes. The total issues for the 96th year are 452,479 more volumes than in the 95th and are about twice as large as they were for 1906.

"The wonder of this work," says the report of the Bible society, "is in its continual expansion, or at least in the inviting opportunities for expansion, together with the absence of any hindrances like the Government opposition which in some countries has barred our way in past years. The only serious hindrances to seizing these opportunities arise in the United States—that is to say, they spring entirely from the problems connected with the financial support of the society."

The report tells of a new enthusiasm for missions in the churches with resultant stimulation of mission work in Asia and Africa, and this demands greater efforts from the society. The society is already laying plans to supply the Panama canal zone with the Scriptures. "In this latest addition to the territories of the United States," the report says, "we have to consider the permanent corps of workmen, the greatly increased commercial population and the thousands of sailors of all nations who will be passing continually through the canal."

Translation of the Bible into various tongues of the Philippine islands is one of the recent achievements of the society. A New Testament in Ibanag has been completed and the society has co-operated with the British and Foreign Bible Society in revising the Tagalog New Testament. The Old Testament has been brought out in Panayan and the Pentateuch in Gebuan and Pampangan. A New Testament in Kurdish is being issued, too. The Scriptures in Siamese is being revised, as is also the Zulu version in Africa.

The society feels the effect of various political movements. A change in the government may broaden opportunities for circulating the Bible. The report says the Mexican revolution has increased the difficulties for the agency, but the circulation of Bibles has been almost as large as it was before the revolution began. The circulation in China has increased and on this the report comments: "This is all the more remarkable, considering the extraordinary hindrances there have been—plague, famine and revolution occurring all in one year."

The area of distribution in China has been diminished, but the total demand is greater than before the revolution began.

An idea of the extent of the business transacted by the American Bible society may be obtained from the budget, which is over $800,000 for this year.—Tacoma Leader.

The placing of the receivership of the D. T. & I. in the hands of George P. Johnson, former general superintendent of the Norfolk and Western, has already been the means of Harry Weller receiving a fine promotion.

Mr. Weller is slated to take charge of the most important division of the D. T. & I. For several years he has been trainmaster of the Pocahontas division of the N. & W. Closely associated with George P. Johnson for a number of years in the railroad business it was rumored several days ago in railroad circles that Mr. Weller would soon follow Mr. Johnson to the D. ## OLD DICKIE HOUSE

Has Had Every President as Its Guest Except Taft.

Washington.—On the Virginia side of the Great Falls of the Potomac, commonly known as "the Niagara of the South," fourteen miles from Washington, is an ancient building, the old Dickie house, connected with which is the pleasing tradition that every president of the United States has taken dinner beneath its roof tree, President Taft alone excepted. The old habitation, long famous for its fish and chicken dinners, is the only dwelling left of the departed City of Matildasville, that was called into being by the construction of the Potomac Company Canal, of which George Washington, after relinquishing his command at the close of the revolution, was promoter and president.

Generations ago the canal was abandoned and Matildasville vanished from the map. The old Dickie house alone remains. George Washington often ate beneath its roof. When the British captured Washington in 1814 President Madison and his cabinet, it is said, tarried for a meal before crossing the river. All the presidents but one are said by the descendants of the original owner of the house to have sat at the table in the little dining-room when visiting the falls and to have partaken of fish and chicken cooked in a style that has made the Dickie family famous for its culinary accomplishments. Some are skeptical enough to question this claim, but it is put forth with such stress that most visitors depart strong in the faith that they have eaten a meal in a room that has been honored by the presence of all the presidents but one. As yet President Taft has not sat in judgment upon a meal at Dickie's, and the absorbing ambition of the proprietor of the house is to make the list complete.

Since the completion of the trolley line to the Great Falls of the Potomac this beautiful work of nature has attracted a great interest among excursionists. The trip to the falls is one of the most popular in the vicinity of the national capital. Last year, 170,000 excursionists visited the falls. In addition, thousands of other sightseers made the trip by automobile or carriage on the Maryland side. This route is far more beautiful than the one on the Virginia side, for the road winds along the river and the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal to the famous Cabin John bridge, which was built when Jefferson Davis was secretary of war. During the civil war the name of Jefferson Davis, which was inscribed on the bridge, was chiseled out, but a few years ago it was replaced, an episode that attracted wide interest at the time. From here the road cuts across a beautiful hilly country to the Great Falls on the Maryland side, where there is a hotel of advanced age.

The falls are always changing, according to the height of the water. Above them is a dam which holds back the water for the Washington supply. A rise of one inch at the dam makes a rise of eight inches in the water as it passes over the falls and down the gorges. The spectacle is one of great majesty. The river splits and runs around a craggy island, and the two parts rush together again and pour thunderously between great rocks which split the flood into three separate waterfalls, as it tumbles over the precipice into the caudron. Here the water, rushing in from three angles, forms a great whirlpool and thence rushes through a narrow gorge with perpendicular walls of granite for about a mile, where it spreads out into a placid expanse.
